ABOUT ME

I am Joel Nathan Cimpean, a web designer and web developer from Albstadt. Since I was a child, I have been interested in everything that can be built online. From design tutorials in Photoshop to video editing, I have always enjoyed trying different things and staying open to new ideas.

In my personal life, I enjoy going to the gym, I am a car enthusiast, and I like building apps and other online projects on the side. Structure, project management, and good planning are important to me — I pay attention to deadlines and try to finish things early.

In my work, I focus mainly on web design, web development, and AI-supported workflows. I build many things with AI support, but not through blind copy-and-paste — I make sure I understand what I am implementing and work thoughtfully, honestly, and practically.
